I am a 22-year-old student studying in the field of Creative Technologies – majoring in Interactive development. I have a strong desire to create and love to see how my creations positively impact other people. I am a passionate software engineer who not only loves to code but also loves to create beautiful, user-friendly interface designs that help assist individuals to perform their everyday tasks. I have a background in graphic design and a strong sense of branding, which I love to incorporate into my websites and apps.
